Forever Morgans Breeding Policy

Each horse we rescue is an individual, each is valuable to us just as they are, and each deserves the best care we can give them- for the rest of their life. Forever Morgans Rescue acknowledges that the Morgan breed is genetically very limited. Therefore Forever Morgans will allow occasional breeding on a case by case basis. In order for approval for any breeding to take place ALL of these requirements must be met, as determined by the Board of Directors:

1. Any adopter interested in breeding a Forever Morgan Rescue horse must submit their request in writing to the Board of Directors.
2. Any breeding must be approved IN WRITING by the Board of Directors of Forever Morgans Rescue BEFORE the mare is bred.
3. The foal must have an approved permanent home in place BEFORE the mare is bred. NO speculative breeding will be allowed.
4. Any Mare/Stallion considered for breeding must have no serious behavioral issues that may inhibit the animals ability to safely negotiate a breeding situation
5. Any Mare/Stallion considered for breeding must be in good physical and emotional condition
6. The resulting foal must be permanently adopted with a Forever Morgans contract, whether or not it is transferred to anyone else.
7. Forever Morgans must be reimbursed all monies expended on the mare/stallion if the foal is transferred to another adopter rather than retained by the mare/stallion's adopter
8. All foals not retained permanently by the adopter/breeder may be required to pay a $100 fee to Forever Morgans Rescue to be used by Forever Morgans to track the foal for their lifetime
9. In no case will more than 2 foals be approved from a single mare .
10. Any animal found to have been bred without prior written permission will immediately become the property of Forever Morgans Rescue and will be removed from the adopters property within 30 days unless other arrangements are made in writing with Forever Morgans.

The Board may request an examination by a qualified veterinarian at the adopter's expense at any time during the approval process. The Board reserves the right to change or modify this policy at any time as they determine best fits the needs of any individual Forever Morgan Rescue horse. Any such change(s) will be provided in writing to the adopter requesting the breeding.

Forever Morgans Surrender Policy

Your Responsibilities if You Must Give Up Your Adopted Horse

Forever Morgans rescues are adopted out with the hope and assumption that the adoption will be permanent. We do not do “trial adoptions”. Your first responsibility is to take this seriously, knowing that while Forever Morgans is there as a safety net in case of serious life events (serious illness, death, bankruptcy, things of that nature), you have made a commitment to the Morgan you have adopted. These horses have already been considered “temporary” and let down by humans in the past; you are promising to be the human that shows them that not all humans consider them disposable. Please remember that sometimes it can take a few months, sometimes even up to a year, for a rescued horse to learn to trust again and show you who they really are as a result of the treatment they received by those people who considered them “temporary”. Your job is to be there for the long haul so they can be who they were meant to be.

If, however, life takes a path that indicates that you must surrender/rehome your adopted horse, these are your responsibilities at that point.

1. Your contract specifies that Forever Morgans has right of first refusal at the price you paid originally. You are to notify Forever Morgans FIRST before seeking to place the horse yourself. Forever Morgans has 14 days to exercise our right of first refusal. If we exercise our right of first refusal and take the horse into foster to be rehomed:
  - You will sign an Owner Surrender form releasing the horse to Forever Morgans.
  - You will sign the registration papers over to Forever Morgans Rescue, Inc.
  - You are responsible for transport to the foster home selected by Forever Morgans.
  - Within seven (7) days of Forever Morgans exercising their right of first refusal, you will provide Forever Morgans with current photos and a write-up on the horse intended to help us promote him to a new home.
  - You will be responsible for feed and care of the horse you adopted until Forever Morgans can find a foster home to move it to.

2. If Forever Morgans does not exercise our right of first refusal by taking the horse back into foster, at that point both you and Forever Morgans will seek to find a new home. Your responsibilities at that point are:
  - You will provide Forever Morgans with current photos and a write up on the horse intended to help us promote him to a new home.
  - You will speak to prospective adopters that Forever Morgans sends to you to give them the best possible picture of the horse.
  - You will seek to find a good forever home for the horse, and will, as agreed to in your contract, make sure the new prospective adopter completes and signs a Forever Morgans contract and is approved by Forever Morgans.
  - If you are charging an adoption fee for the horse, any Forever Morgans initial expenses above and beyond the adoption fee you paid initially will be reimbursed out of the proceeds. You may keep anything over that or donate it to Forever Morgans.
  - You will be responsible for care of the horse until a replacement adoptive home is found.
